4. The total number of persons for trial, exclusive of Ajmere, which was not included in the Returns for 1865, was 103,440, as compared with 98,155 in the previous year,—being an increase of 5,285.

5. This increase occurred altogether in persons charged with bailable offences; the number of persons charged with the more heinous or non-bailable offences shows a decrease of 121.

6. These figures, however, do not accurately represent the state of crime; for while numbers of guilty persons escape detection, numbers of persons are brought up for trial who are innocent of offence.

7. Thus, on the one hand, it is reported that 50,437 non-bailable offences were ascertained to have been committed during the year, while but 26,108 persons were brought up for trial; on the other, 10,533 persons, after having been arrested by the Police, or brought up to the Magistrate's Court on summons or warrant, were discharged without even being put on their trial.

8. For the latter result the Police are in some degree to blame, in so far as they have sent in prisoners against whom there is no evidence to substantiate the charge preferred. But the Magistrates in some districts are no doubt also responsible, for they are apt to issue summonses on complaint without proper caution.

9. Very many of the petty charges on which persons are summoned to the Criminal Courts come under the head of criminal trespass and mischief, and probably the bulk of these are of such a nature that they should not be entertained at all in a Criminal Court; they are brought with the object of establishing possession over disputed property, or of obtaining evidence for a Civil suit.

10. Again, it is not for every petty squabble that the machinery of the Criminal Courts should be set in motion. "Nothing is an offence by reason that it causes "any harm, if that harm is so slight that no person of ordinary sense and temper "would complain of such harm."—Indian Penal Code, Section 95.

11. There is a tendency to disregard altogether the annoyance, the loss, and the disgrace that may attach itself to every one arraigned on a criminal charge, and to look upon the Criminal Courts as Civil tribunals for the adjustment of disputes.

12. The stamp which the new law affixes to complaints before a Magistrate will, in respect of the poorer classes of complainants, stop many groundless and frivolous charges; and those Magistrates who have hitherto failed to exercise due discretion will, the Court hopes learn to consider the petitions presented and examine carefully the grounds of complaint before issuing summonses on the accused.

13. There were under trial in the Magisterial Courts at the end of the year but 906 persons—a decrease of 415, compared with the similar Returns for 1865; and of these 906, only 545 were in custody. Seeing that there are more than 200 Magistrates' Courts in the North-Western Provinces, this result must be considered satisfactory.

14. The cases of 11 persons only had been under investigation or trial in the Magisterial Courts for more than three months at the end of the year, as compared with the cases of 23 persons at the end of 1865. This improvement is also regarded as very satisfactory.

15. In the case shown in the Furruckabad Statement as pending for more than three months, the accused is in a lunatic asylum, unable to make his defence. Exceptional circumstances such as this can alone excuse a Magistrate for keeping a case on his file over three months.

16. The Court is of opinion that the Magistrates, as a rule, dispose of the work brought before them with punctuality and promptitude.

17. The proportion of persons convicted or committed to the total number against whom complaints were investigated was 62 per cent. This proportion shows a slight increase upon that for 1865. Proportion of convic- t

18. It is very low in the Etawah and Ajmere districts; high in the districts of Dehra Doon, Boolundshuhur, and Benares. For the last three years, Benares has shown the best proportion of convictions. The unsatisfactory result in the two former districts is due to the indiscriminate manner in which petty charges are admitted; and the Magistrate of Etawah expresses his opinion that an amicable compromise is the best termination of such accusations. So it may be, but it should not be effected by the agency of a Criminal Court, which is instituted for the protection of the public and for the punishment of offenders, and is not a patriarchal tribunal for the settlement of disputes.

19. In cases investigated by the Police, the Magistrate is, of course, not responsible for the result of the particular trial; but he should be careful to note imperfect investigations, and by his instructions or by censure, or, if necessary, by severer measures, endeavour to bring about improvement. The Court has recently obtained the sanction of Government to a rule requiring the presence of the District Superintendent of Police, or other superior officer of Police, at every Sessions trial, in order that the Judge may at the time point out to a responsible officer the faults or shortcomings of the Police in preparing the case.

20. The number of ascertained offences is put down at 95,225, being an increase of 714 upon the number for 1865. But it is satisfactory to add that there is an actual decrease in the amount of serious crime of 1,578 cases. This may fairly be attributed to greater agricultural prosperity. Amount of Crime

21. Where increase has taken place, it is assigned to more faithful reporting on the part of the Police,—to the extension of Section 34 of the Police Act for the punishment of obstructions and nuisances to certain Towns,—to the non-observance of sanitary regulations promulgated by Government,—to the increase in the number of Magisterial Courts.

22. On examination of the statements showing the description of offences reported to have been committed in the several districts, it is surprising to find that but 13 cases of giving false evidence and 23 of forgery were brought up for trial during the year.

23. No cases of Thuggee are reported, and but one case of belonging to a gang of dacoits. There is an increase, however, in the cases of administration of stupifying drugs, which amounted to 49. The Court believes that the attention of the Police Department has been seriously directed to this alarming crime, which threatens to rival the Thuggee of former days.

24. Of the total number of non-bailable offences reported,—viz., 50,437,—no less than 28,620 came under the head of theft, and 13,938 more under the head of house-breaking. Many of these reported crimes are believed to be fictitious, such as cases of cattle straying, and many more so petty as hardly to be designated crime.

25. As will be seen from the table below, there was no very material change in the number of the more serious offences affecting the human body. The number of persons brought up for trial doubles, as it did during 1865, the number of offences. In the commission of such crimes, several persons generally are concerned, and where the offence is committed in the course of an affray or riot, many persons are arrested for one offence, and complaints are frequently entered by both parties to the quarrel. The injured persons, too, are more able and ready to point out the offenders than in the case of offences against property. To such considerations, more than to successful efforts on the part of the Police, must, the Court fear, the high proportion of arrests to offences be attributed; for, so far as the Court can judge from the cases which come before it, the Police are wanting in detective ability.

	1865.		1866.
	Number of offences.	Persons for trial.	Number of offences.	Persons for trial.
Murder	335	754	313	734

Grievous hurt	39	197	86	128
Rape	154	185	197	209
Total ...	731	1,695	820	1,748

26. There has been a not inconsiderable decrease in the number of offences against property, as exemplified in the following table; and especially more plentiful harvests have rendered less frequent the crime of house-breaking :—

	1865.		1866.
	Offences.	Persons for trial.	Offences.	Persons for trial.
Dacoity	98	297	72	431
Theft	28,309	14,785	28,620	14,500
Receiving stolen property	1,623	3,400	2,031	3,927
Robbery	376	591	303	393
House-breaking	16,453	3,184	13,938	2,677
Total ...	47,859	22,257	44,964	21,928
Criminal breach of trust ...	...	...	456	644

27. It appears to be in the investigation of cases of ordinary theft and house-breaking that the Police most fail, unless the reports are much exaggerated. That only 2,677 persons should have been brought up for trial on account of 13,938 reported crimes, is a fact that calls for very serious consideration.

28. Thus, one Magistrate writes:—"It is in burglaries and thefts that the "Police are least successful; they are too much disposed to give up a case as hope-"less at once, if the village Chowkeedar or the plaintiff is unable to afford some "clue to the perpetrators. It is very difficult to root out the old and obnoxious "system of throwing the whole onus probandi on the unfortunate individual who "has been robbed." Another Magistrate would gladly welcome a far greater increase than had taken place in the number of persons charged with non-bailable offences, for "in the great majority of theft and house-trespass cases the offenders are "never detected or apprehended. If the Police did their work well, the number "of persons tried under this head might well be doubled." And a third,—"I affirm "that arrests in only 27 cases out of 281 burglaries show a great want of detective "power in the Police, and the fact of so large a proportion of convictions shows, as "I have always held to be the case, that, unless the offender is taken in the act, "he is never taken at all. This is the opinion also of the native public, openly express-"ed." In the Etah district, the Police have been reported as especially inefficient, but better results were expected from a change in the superintending officer.

29. The Court has reason to fear that the objectionable and illegal practice of extorting or eliciting confessions from accused persons is not unknown in the Police.

30. It is, however, the general impression that the Police are improving, especially in the higher ranks, and it would be unfair not to make allowance for the recent introduction of the Constabulary Force, and for the difficulties thrown in the way of the Police by the apathy of the people.

31. It has been very truly remarked that the time of the Police is unprofitably taken up in serving summonses in bailable cases,—time that should be devoted to the investigation of serious crime. This evil is aggravated by the facility with which summonses are at present obtained, and the provision of Section 70 of the Criminal Procedure Code, that summons should ordinarily be issued through a Police Officer, shows how far it was from the intention of the Legislature that the intervention of the Criminal Courts should be invoked for the determination of every petty quarrel.

32. The next statement shows the description of Magisterial work performed in the several districts.

33. Exclusive of miscellaneous business, the number of cases conducted amounted to 66,645, showing an increase of 2,956 over the Return for 1865.

34. As might have been expected from the operation of Act VIII. of 1866, by which certain charges formerly triable by the Sessions Judge alone have been placed within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate, there was a decrease of 223 in the number of cases prepared for the Sessions, and a very considerable increase in the number of trials before Magistrates under Chapters XIV. and XV. of the Code of Criminal Procedure, which amounted to 63,775.

35. The number of enquiries by Subordinate Magistrates diminished from 1,626 to 906. It is curious to observe the difference of practice that obtains in different districts as to the employment of Subordinate Magistrates in preliminary enquiry as permitted by Sections 135, 180, and 273 of the Code. Thus, in 12 districts no such enquiries were conducted at all; in Bijnour and Futtehpore 193 and 177 enquiries took place. The general tendency seems to be to discontinue the employment of Subordinate Magistrates on such duties. Local enquiries are made over to the Police, and it is more convenient, in referring a case under Chapter XVI., to refer it to an officer competent to dispose of it, than to one who can only enquire into it. It is possible that the general character of the Police investigation might be improved by the occasional deputation of a Subordinate Magistrate to hold local enquiry, while the officer deputed would be more likely to learn and report the actual circumstances of the particular case, and would gain valuable experience.

36. The largest number of enquiries preliminary to commitment to the Sessions took place in the undermentioned districts:—

Allahabad ...	... 126	Mirzapore ...	... 117
Cawnpore ...	... 123	Furruckabad	... 108

and the fewest in

Kumaon ...	... } 7	Bijnour ...	... 24
Gurhwal ...	... }	Boolundshuhur	... 27
Dehra ...	... 20	Humeerpore ...	... 28

This is exclusive of the districts of the Jhansie Division and Ajmere, where Act XV. of 1862 gives higher powers to the Magistrates. Allahabad and Cawnpore were similarly conspicuous in the Return for 1865.

37. The largest number of criminal trials before Magistrates took place in the undermentioned districts:—

Benares ...	... 4,449	Agra ...	... 3,429
Futtehpore	... 3,505	Mozuffernugger	... 3,094

Gurhwal ...	... }	Humeerpore	... 999
Lullutpore ...	... 619

Benares, Agra, and Etawah appeared in the same list in the Returns for 1865. Etawah owes its presence there to the prominent part in the administration taken by the Honorary Magistrates, and the encouragement given to the people to bring all their complaints and disputes into the Criminal Courts; Benares, Agra, and Bareilly, probably to their large cities; Futtehpore to the number of persons punished for the non-observance of the sanitary regulations promulgated by Government, and imprisoned in default of security, and punished for breach of the Customs laws. The Magistrate has been called upon for a report on the subject.

38. It is worthy of notice that the fewest trials took place in the same six districts both in 1865 and in 1866. In Humeerpore probably the result is due to the peculiar position of the Sudder Station at a corner of the district, and separated from the rest of the district by, it is believed, an unbridged river. The nature of the country and the sparse population sufficiently accounts for the small number of trials in Kumaon, Gurhwal, Dehra, and Lullutpore. In Boolundshuhur the Magistrates appear to exercise a wise discretion befere issuing summonses, and the proportion of convictions to acquittals in bailable cases is higher than in any other district; hence trials are fewer.

39. The greatest number of trials was held before the undermentioned officers:—

Mr. Ironside, Magistrate, Benares	1,175
Imdad Ali, Deputy Magistrate, Cawnpore	1,109
Mr. Niblett, Deputy Magistrate, Benares	1,032
Munsoor Ali Khan, Deputy Magistrate, Futtehpore ...	943
Mr. Bachman, Deputy Magistrate, Ghazeepore	942
Mr. Halkett, Joint Magistrate, Benares...	842
Raja Juswunt Rao, Honorary Magistrate	837
Mr. C. Grant, Magistrate, Etawah and Futtehpore ...	777
Mr. Duthoit, Joint Magistrate, Mirzapore	767
Mr. Quinn, Assistant Magistrate, Benares	730

It will be noticed that the names of four officers of the Benares district appear in this list. The Court is glad to observe the large share of criminal work undertaken by Mr. Ironside. It is but seldom that the Magistrate of the district devotes his time to this branch of his duties.

40. Imdad Ali, Deputy Magistrate, held charge of the important city of Cawnpore, and the Magistrate writes of him as an invaluable assistant.

50. It is honorable to Raja Juswunt Rao, C. S. I. Honorary Magistrate in the Etawah district, that his name should appear in this list, as it did also in the similar list for 1865.

51. The names also of Mr. Halkett, Mr. Quinn, Mr. Niblett, and Mr. Bachman appeared in the list for 1865.

52. The subjoined statement shows the amount and details of work performed by the Honorary Magistrates of the several districts.

53. It will be seen that the employment of resident landholders in this capacity is becoming more general. In 1864, 2,223 trials were held before Honorary Magistrates; in 1865, 3,205; and in the past year, 4,502. The Magistrates generally write favorably of the system, and acknowledge the assistance received. The fault of the Honorary Magistrates appears to be, as may be inferred from the proportion of convictions to acquittals, a too great readiness to receive all complaints and to adjudicate between parties as in a civil suit. It is satisfactory to observe that but six persons were left under trial at the close of the year. In the districts of Budaon, Futtehpore, and Etawah, the Honorary Magistrates rendered most material help.

54. The Magistrate of Etawah writes in the highest terms of Rajah Juswunt Rao, C.S.I., who devotes himself to his work with industry and zeal equal to that of the most hard-worked of the regular Magistrates. Mr. Hume also praises very warmly the labors of Chowbey Gunga Pershaud, who has lately died.

55. The Magistrate of Mynpoory records that Chowdry Luchmun Singh has rendered very useful assistance; that out of 70 persons sentenced by him, only one appealed, and in that case the sentence was confirmed.

56. Sheikh Ahmed Bux Khan Buhadoor, in the Futtehpore district, is described by the Magistrate as a man of marked and unusual ability, and has done his work well. In the Jounpore district, Syud Riazut Ali is stated to have been very useful and zealous.

57. The Magistrate of Bareilly gives a good character to Hukeem Hidayut Ali, of Aonla; and Mr. Carmichael thanks Mr. George Debnam and Sheikh Seerajood-deen for much assistance cordially rendered.

58. The Board of Honorary Magistrates, sitting together in the city for the trial of criminal cases, continues, it is reported, to work successfully at Shahjehanpore. At Etawah, where the experiment has also been tried, it has not been so successful. The officers comprising the Board could or would not work together.

59. At Etah, one of the regular Magistrates was deputed to sit with Rajah Dilsookh Rao for the hearing of petty cases; and this plan gave satisfaction; but it was not continued, as the time of the regular Magistrate could not be spared.

60. It is well suggested by the Judge of Mirzapore, where no native gentleman has been appointed Honorary Magistrate, that one of the regular Magistrates should hold Court two or three times in the week at some central Police Station in the city, for the trial of petty thefts and minor crimes. A system of cotton pilfering is reported to be very prevalent in the city, and some special measure is stated to be necessary to put down the crime.

61. In the Meerut, Etawah, and other districts watered by the canal, there are officers of the Irrigation Department vested with magisterial powers for the punishment of offences connected with the canal. It has been held that appeals from their orders lie only to the Sessions Judge, and that they are not subordinate in the exercise of their magisterial authority to the Magistrate of the district. The Magistrate of Meerut protests very strongly against this arrangement, especially as the officers are quite untrained for judicial work. The Court thinks it right to bring the subject to the notice of Government. The policy of investing officers of a special department with authority to punish offences against their departmental rules seems very questionable, although it is done under the authority of Act VII. of 1845; and where it is done, there should be at any rate every facility of appeal to an independent tribunal, in order to correct the possible injustice committed by a zealous officer who is at once prosecutor and judge.

62. The next statement shows the nature of the sentences passed by the Magisterial authorities throughout the year.

63. In all, 21,431 persons were sentenced to imprisonment, being an increase, exclusive of Ajmere, of about 2,000 over the result for 1865. Of these, only 834 were sentenced to simple imprisonment.

64. The degrees of punishment were as follows :—

Not exceeding six months	16,385
Ditto ditto one year	2,140

65. The increase over the number for 1865 is due partly to the enactment of Act VIII. of 1866, partly to the increased number of persons accused of bailable offences, and partly to the higher proportion of convictions.

66. It will be observed that of the sentences of above one year's imprisonment none were to simple imprisonment, and that of those of above six months but 15 were to simple imprisonment. The Magistrates are no doubt aware that to the poorer and the criminal classes simple imprisonment is no punishment. Thus, the Magistrate of Jounpore complains of the insufficiency of the punishment of simple imprisonment, which is all the law allows, to stop the crime of attempt at suicide, which is common in his district, owing apparently to general distress. It is not likely, however, that a man bent on committing suicide would be stopped by the fear of rigorous imprisonment, but it is possible that feigned or half attempts may be made in the hope of obtaining a not uncomfortable lodging and a sufficiency of food.

67. Similarly, the Magistrate of Mirzapore reports that the provisions of Chapter XIX. of the Code of Criminal Procedure are powerless over the bad characters of the city, who purposely decline to furnish security, and accept without reluctance the idle life in prison.

68. Judging from the number of persons sentenced to periods of imprisonment exceeding one year, the criminal class is most numerous and hardened in the districts of Cawnpore and Ghazeepore. The latter district was remarkable for the number of heavy sentences in 1865 also. In Moozuffernugger, only 15 heavier sentences were passed during 1866, and only 9 during 1865.

69. Thirty-four thousand, nine hundred and ninety-two persons were fined in the Magistrates' Courts to an aggregate amount of Rs. 3,55,140. These figures give an increase of 3,748 in the number of persons fined, but a decrease of Rs. 3,502 in the amount imposed, as compared with the Return for 1865.

70. Only 2 persons were fined to an amount exceeding Rs. 500, and only 28 persons to an amount exceeding Rs. 200. The latter number—28—is the same as appeared in the similar Return for 1865. Out of the total number fined,—viz., 34,992, —34,685 persons were fined small sums below Rs. 50.

71. Of the amount of fines imposed, 65 per cent. was realized,—a considerable improvement upon the percentage for 1865, which was 60. Considering, however, that, under Section 70 of the Indian Penal Code, imprisonment, when inflicted in default of payment, is no satisfaction of the fine, it seems improbable that any person will go to prison if the fine inflicted be within his means. The Court think, therefore, that if all Magistrates were to regard well the means of offenders when awarding fines, and were to use due diligence in realizing fines, this proportion would be much higher.

72. Subjoined is a statement showing the offences for which fines were imposed exceeding in the aggregate Rs. 1,000. By far the largest amount was, as in 1865, imposed for the offence of causing grievous hurt, and the five offences following next in order are also the same as in the similar statement for 1865 :—

74. In the following districts resort was most had to this kind of punishment:—

Ghazeepore	318
Benares	283
Allahabad	236
Mirzapore	232
Azimgurh	217

It is noticeable that these five districts appeared also in the list for 1865 of those districts in which most persons were whipped, and that the Magistrates of the Benares Division appear to approve of whipping more than the other Magistrates.

75. In the following districts resort was least had to this kind of punishment:—

Moozuffernugger	12
Bijnour	27
Dehra	29
Etawah	32
Kumaon	34
Etah	43

It is again noticeable that these seven districts were similarly conspicuous in the Return for 1865.

76. The general opinion and practice seem to be in favor of the punishment as suitable for juvenile offenders, and for other offenders on the first commission of such offences as theft and receiving stolen property; but it is thought to be insufficient as sole punishment for hardened criminals. Thus, there has been an increase of 59 in the number of juveniles whipped, a decrease of 204 in the number of adults, as compared with the results of 1865.

77. In the event of the establishment of Reformatories for the discipline and training of juvenile offenders, the Court would regard with satisfaction a decrease in the number of juveniles whipped. Till such time, however, there can be no doubt that whipping is the best punishment for such offenders.

78. The next statement shows the result of appeals to the Sessions Court:—

79. Notwithstanding a considerable increase in the number of appealable cases decided by the Magistrates, the number of cases appealed to the Judge is less than in 1865. The percentage of reversals to appealable cases decided—3—is the same as for 1865, and must be considered very satisfactory. The proportion, however, of judgments reversed or modified to appeals decided by the Judge—26 per cent.—is not quite so good as for 1865.

80. It is remarkable that Boolundshuhur, which was one of the districts in which fewest criminal trials were held, should be one of those in which most orders were passed appealable to the Judge.

81. In the undermentioned districts the appeals were fewest, as compared with appealable decisions:—

Boolundshuhur	4	per cent.
Bijnour	4	,,
Jounpore	4	,,
Budaon	5	,,
Lullutpore	6	,,
Ajmere	7	,,
Meerut	7	,,

And in these, appeals were most frequent:—

Muttra	36	per cent.
Allygurh	39	,,
Dehra	51	,,
Kumaon, Gurhwal	68	,,

Bijnour, Jounpore, and Boolundshuhur appeared in the former list also for 1865, and Allygurh in the latter. It will be noticed that the frequency of appeal does not depend, as might have been anticipated, upon the residence of a Judge at the Sudder Station.

82. In the undermentioned districts, decisions were the least disturbed, as compared with the number of appeals actually heard :—

Shahjehanpore	5 per cent.
Ajmere	8	,,
Jaloun	13	,,
Dehra
Meerut

And in these, decisions were the most frequently altered :—

Lullutpore	67 per cent.
Moradabad	48 ,,
Mynpoorie	41 ,,
Etah	39 ,,
Etawah	36 ,,

The last three districts, it may be remarked, are under the jurisdiction of the Judge of Mynpoorie.

83. One Magistrate has complained of what he considers a defect in the present practice of hearing appeals,—namely, that there is no one present on behalf of the Crown to answer the arguments or refute the assertions of the Counsel who may be engaged on behalf of the prisoner. It is not difficult, however, to remedy this defect. The Magistrate should instruct the Government Pleader or other qualified practitioner to appear on behalf of the prosecution, where the importance and circumstances of the case may require such precaution.

84. Of individual officers, the undermentioned are those from whose decisions in appealable cases the fewest appeals were proportionately preferred :—

Name of Officer.	No. of appealable orders passed.	Percentage of appeals.
Mr. Twigg, Assistant Magistrate, Agra ...	72	1
Captain Shuttleworth, Cantonment Magistrate, Ajmere	135	1
Mr. Debnam, Honorary Magistrate, Budaon ...	180	2
Mr. Concannan, Deputy Magistrate, Azimgurh,	111	2
Captain Wheler, Cantonment Magistrate, Jhansie,	53	2
Mr. R. J. Crosthwaite, Assistant Magistrate, Boolundshuhur	421	3
Shurf-ood-deen, Honorary Magistrate, Budaon,	408	3

85. The names of Mr. R. J. Crosthwaite and Mr. Debnam appeared in the similar statement for 1865; and it is some evidence of the popularity of the two Honorary Magistrates, Mr. Debnam and Shurf-ood-deen, that so few of their decisions were appealed.

86. The Court are, however, constrained to remark that this statement is of little or no worth as the test of the soundness of a Magistrate's decisions. This is proved by the absence from the lists of the names of those officers whose experience is the greatest and whose judgments are the best.

87. The results of appeals were most favorable to the judgment of those officers whose names follow :—

Name of Officer.	Number of appeals heard.	Percentage of reversals and modification to decisions.
1. Mr. Ironside, Magistrate, Benares ...	28	4
2. Mr. A. Sells, Assistant Magistrate, Agra ...	21	5
3. Nasir Ali Khan	19	5
4. Mr. Ward, Assistant Magistrate, Dehra ...	16	6
5. Mr. Howell, Ditto, Shahjehanpore ...	35	6

7. Mr. C. Twigg, Ditto, Shahjehanpore ...	13	8
8. Mr. Clarke, Magistrate, Banda	13	8
9. Major Davidson, Deputy Commr., Ajmere ...	25	8

Here, again, the names of some of the best officers are conspicuous by their absence; but the officer at the head of the list deserves his place.

88. A statement follows, showing the result of commitments made to the Sessions during the past year. Act VIII. of 1866 has brought about a decrease in the number of these cases. The general percentage of convictions to commitments—74—is more favorable by 1 than the result for 1865.

There does not appear to be much use in keeping up this statement. There is no doubt that in many cases which should properly be dealt with under this chapter, charges of criminal trespass are erroneously brought, and, the Court fears, entertained.

91. The next statement shows the number of witnesses examined in the Courts of the different districts and the periods of their detention :—

92. The number of witnesses examined has increased considerably over the return for 1865, being 256,083, as compared with 238,311. But the Court are glad to observe that the percentage of those dismissed after one day has improved from 95 per cent. in 1865 to 98 per cent. in 1866.

93. The returns from the districts of Boolundshuhur and Budaon are wonderfully good. In the latter district, 13,941 witnesses were examined during the year, and only 24 detained over one day. The returns from Agra, Etawah, Meerut, and Moradabad, are hardly less good. Benares and Furruckabad also show well.

94. It has been hinted that, regard being had to the pressure of work upon most Magistrates, and the constant moves into the interior during the cold weather, these returns are too good to be true. The Sudder Court, however, directed that each Magisterial Officer shall personally attest with his own signature the correctness of the entries in the register of the attendance of witnesses at the close of office for the day; and the Court is slow to believe that with this precaution the correctness of the returns cannot be ensured. And, after all, punctual attendance at office, and additional labor on occasions, are not virtues too high to be demanded from trusted public servants.

95. Close on 16,000 witnesses attended the Courts in Etawah. In 1865, also, the largest number of witnesses attended in this district. The people were encouraged to bring all their complaints into Court. It is right to notice that the greatest pains were taken to prevent any unnecessary annoyance from undue detention to this multitude of witnesses.

96. The Court has taken proper notice where witnesses appear to have been improperly detained, as in Ajmere, Lullutpore, Jaloun, Ghazeepore, and Mirzapoor. The Banda return is not good, but it was affected by the illness of the officer stationed at Kirwee.

97. The average duration of cases in the Magistrates' Courts is shown in the following statement:—

98. This statement must also be considered very satisfactory, except in regard, perhaps, to the districts of Allygurh, Etah, Goruckpore, Bustee, Gurhwal, and Jhansie. For the comparatively large duration in the four last districts, sufficient excuse is found in geographical formation or the intermixture of foreign territory.

99. Some officers have protested strongly against the attachment of much importance to this statement, on the ground that any pressure put upon the Magistrates to shorten the duration of their cases only leads to imperfect investigation and hasty judgment. One officer remarks that the average duration for his district could have been shorter but for the laudable habit of one of his subordinates to proceed to the spot and hold local enquiry in cases of difficulty; in other districts, the duration has been increased by the laborious proceedings of an officer who has at the same time been commended for his diligence and good judgment. The object of the return is, of course, to ensure the prompt discharge of duty; and so long as the character of the Magistrate is known to the Court to be above suspicion of idleness or procrastination, the Court will refrain from censure, even though the return of average duration is below the standard mark.

100. Still, where other objects have not interfered with the quick despatch of business, there is matter for congratulation; and the officers of the districts of Benares, Dehra, Etawah, Jounpore, Meerut, Budaon, Furruckabad, Cawnpore, Futtehpore, and Kumaon, are entitled to commendation on this account. The Court have also satisfaction in reporting that the general average duration throughout the Provinces is shorter by one day than it was for 1865.

101. The next statement shows the general result in each district of appeals preferred from the decisions of Subordinate Magistrates to the Magistrate of the district. The proportion of decisions altered to appeals heard is the same as for 1865.

102. The very small number of appeals in the Allahabad district may be noticed. It appears that appeals from the decisions of one Subordinate Magistrate were erroneously heard by the Judge. The Court has been surprised to notice the same error of practice in other districts. The language of Sections 412 and 414 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is clear enough.

104. More use appears to have been made of this Section in the Magisterial Courts than in 1865, and the amount imposed was more successfully realized. The Judges have in a very small degree availed themselves of it. One officer has attributed this to the fact that the complainants do not apply for compensation; but the law does not contemplate such application.

105. The next statement shows the amount of criminal business performed by each Sessions Judge, and the number of days devoted to it:—

106. The number of Sessions trials has diminished; the number of appeals has increased;—in neither case very materially as compared with 1865.

107. The Judges of Mynpoorie, Ghazeepore, Futtehpore, Allahabad, and Bareilly devoted most time to criminal work; exclusive of the Jhansie Division, Kumaon, and Ajmere, the Judges of Jounpore, Moradabad, Allygurh, Furruckabad, and Azimgurh devoted least.

108. Estimated according to the number of cases, the amount of criminal business was heaviest in Bareilly, Mynpoory, Agra, Cawnpore, and Futtehpore; lightest in Furruckabad, Benares, Ghazeepore, Azimgurh, and Jounpore. But the number of cases merely is not a certain test, as may be inferred from the fact that the Judge of Ghazeepore was one of those whose time was most occupied by criminal work, while according to the estimation in figures, he was one of those who had the least amount of criminal work.

109. The Court approves of the practice followed by the Judges of Moradabad and Goruckpore, of fixing certain days for the performance of criminal work. This is most convenient to the Judge himself, the subordinate Courts, and the appellants, who know that their cases will be heard on a certain day. Civil work, too, is the least interrupted; and the pleaders and suitors benefit by the arrangement, which conduces to order and regularity in the despatch of business,—elements essential to judicial proceedings. In a recent Circular, the Court has ordered that a fixed day or days in each month shall be set apart for Sessions trials.

110. The Court has reason to fear that some Judicial Officers are not sufficiently careful to attend their Court-houses at fixed hours in the day. The Court does not attribute this to any lack of diligence, but to the habit of disposing of certain kinds of business out of office. And possibly part of a Magistrate's work may more conveniently be done in private. All that the Court would insist upon is, that well-known hours should be set apart, both by Judges and Magistrates, for attendance at the public Court-house, and that these hours should be rigidly observed. Any other habit must produce a vast amount of public inconvenience, which the servants of the public are not warranted in inflicting.

111. The nature of the sentences awarded by the Sessions Judges is shown in the following statement:—

112. One hundred and three persons were sentenced capitally, as compared with 109 so sentenced in 1865. One hundred and sixty-five were sentenced to transportation for life, as compared with 175 so sentenced in 1865.

113. The greatest number of persons were sentenced capitally in the Bareilly and Mynpoorie Judgeships, as was the case also in 1865.

114. Only 9 persons were flogged by sentence of the Sessions Courts. The Judges seldom flog, because the cases tried by them are generally of a more serious nature than those for which the punishment of flogging is appropriate.

115. The number of persons fined in small sums as sole punishment has very materially diminished,—from 232 in 1865 to 67 in 1866.

116. It is to be regretted that not a seventh part of the fines imposed by Sessions Judges was realized. It is possible that Magistrates—to whom, it is presumed—the Judge's warrant is directed, are not sufficiently diligent in executing the same; and, as has been before observed, many Judicial Officers appear to lose sight of the provisions of the Code, which, in order to deprive the offender of the option of undergoing the imprisonment awarded in default of fine rather than of paying, provides that the Court may, notwithstanding the imprisonment of the offender, levy the fine. Fines, too, are in some cases inflicted without sufficient regard to the means of the offender.

Assessors.

117. The following statement shows the classes from which the Assessors at Sessions trials were taken, and the agreement or disagreement of the Judge with the Assessors in their opinion :—

118. The decisions of all the Judges, except the Judge of Seharunpore, agreed in the great majority of cases with the opinion of the majority of the Assessors.

119. One Judge has remarked that the Assessors are perfectly useless. But another has stated that he has occasionally derived considerable assistance from the Assessors; that they usually appreciate the points of a case; and sometimes put very pertinent questions to the witnesses. "As a rule, I think they act bonâ fide; but I "have seen cases in which they appeared determined to acquit the prisoners at all "hazards." A third Judge has found the presence of Assessors of great assistance in cross-examination, and in enabling him to understand points of native evidence. He considers that they do their work with intelligence and impartiality, and that their presence at trials not only tends to popularize the administration of criminal justice, but forms a valuable contribution to the political education of the people.

120. The Court regrets to notice that one Magistrate has reported the great dislike shown by respectable natives to sit as Assessors. The Court has little doubt that both the popularity and the utility of the system in a great measure depend upon the Judge himself, upon his mode of conducting the trial, and upon the degree in which he chooses to avail himself of the local knowledge and experience of the Assessors.

They may also be affected by the abundance of employment or leisure enjoyed in any particular district by the classes from which Assessors are selected, the distance they have to travel in order to attend Court, and other causes peculiar to certain localities.

121. The duration of criminal trials and appeals before the Sessions Judges is shown in the following table :— Duration of criminal trials and appeals before Sessions Judges.

122. These averages are of course affected by the periods elapsing between the Judges' visits to out-stations and by the promptness with which the record of a case appealed is furnished from the Magistrate's Office. The average duration of Sessions trials at Humeerpore (89 days) is due to the fact that the Judge of Cawnpore only held two Sessions at Humeerpore throughout the year. Those Judges within whose districts out-stations are situated have been requested to report to the Court the dates on which they leave their head-quarters in order to hold Sessions at the out-stations.

123. The Judge of Futtehpore has been called upon to explain the unusually long duration (30 days) of appeals in his Court. The attention of Government is invited to the average duration of Sessions trials (135 days) and of criminal appeals (53 days) in Ajmere. The Court is aware that the Commissioner and Sessions Judge has important duties in his capacity of Agent to the Governor-General which call him away from Ajmere.

124. The next statement shows the result of the references made to the Sudder and High Courts for confirmation of capital sentences, the result of appeals from the decisions of Sessions Judges, and of revision of their sentences by the Sudder and High Courts.

125. The Court confirmed the capital sentences passed by the Sessions Judges on 81 persons out of 100 persons whose cases were referred by the Sessions Judges and decided by the Sudder or High Court during the year. Four persons only were acquitted.

126. In all the cases where capital sentence was passed by Mr. Sapte (9 persons), Mr. Thompson (7 persons), Mr. Paterson (3 persons), Mr. Lance (4 persons), Mr. Boldero (2 persons), Mr. Andrew Ross (3 persons), Mr. Fane (3 persons), Mr. Bax (2 persons), Major McNeile (4 persons), Colonel Eden (1 person), the sentence was confirmed by the Sudder or High Court. In the cases of 16 persons sentenced capitally by Mr. Horne, the Court confirmed the sentence on 14 persons.

127. The cases of 999 persons sentenced by the Sessions Judges came before the Sudder or High Court in the exercise of its appellate power or powers of revision: in 655 cases were the sentences confirmed; 152 persons were acquitted.

128. The results of the Court's decisions were most favorable to the judgment of Mr. Probyn, Mr. Sapte, Major McNeile, and Mr. Thornhill; least favorable to Mr. Andrew Ross, Colonel Eden, Mr. Keene, Mr. Prinsep, and Mr. Power.

129. The Court has every reason to be satisfied with the care and good judgment shown generally both by the Judges and the Magistrates in the administration of criminal justice.

130. Among the Judges, perhaps Mr. Paterson, Mr. Sapte, and Mr. Probyn are most worthy of mention, as having shown judicial ability in their decisions on the Criminal side; and the carefulness of Mr. Fane's judgments has been mentioned in former reports.

131. Among the magisterial authorities, the Court has had reason to notice the able decisions of Mr. Hume, Mr. Edwards, Mr. Ironside, Mr. C. H. Crosthwaite, Mr. Tidy, Mr. Duthoit, and Mr. Markham.

132. Extracts from the reports of the Judges and Magistrates showing the opinion held by them of their subordinates accompany this report. The Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor will no doubt notice the high praise given to Mr. Tracey, Mr. Cadell, Mr. Spedding, Mr. Wall, Mr. Montague, and Mr. Tyrrell; and among the Native Deputy Magistrates, Kunnoo Lall of Etawah, Sheikh Khyr-ood-deen of Bareilly, and Imdad Ally of Cawnpore.

133. The characters of Mr. Forbes, Mr. Martin, Mr. Oldfield, Mr. Carmichael, Mr. Webster, Mr. Harrison, Mr. Wigram, Mr. Jenkinson, as energetic Magistrates, are known to the Government.

Work of the High Court.

134. The High Court of Judicature for the North-Western Provinces commenced its sittings on the 16th June, 1866.

135. The amount of criminal work disposed of by the Sudder and High Courts is shown below :—

The form of statement prescribed in a late despatch from the Secretary of State could not be adopted in this report, owing to the date at which it was received.

136. In all, 962 cases came before the Court, ending in the conviction of 615 persons and the acquittal of 134. There was no material difference between the amount of business transacted in 1866 and in 1865.

137. In addition to the above, 11 criminal trials were held on the Original Criminal side, ending in the conviction of 5 and in the acquittal of 8 European British subjects.

138. The nature of the penalties inflicted under the judgments of the Sudder and High Courts was as follows:—

Besides these, there were two prisoners sentenced to 11 years' imprisonment.

I have the honor to be,
SIR,
Your most obedient Servant,

J. D. SANDFORD,
Registrar.

No. 619A.

FROM

R. SIMSON, ESQUIRE,

Secretary to the Government,
North-Western Provinces,

To

J. D. SANDFORD, ESQUIRE,

Registrar, High Court of Judicature.

DATED NYNEE TAL, THE 28TH AUGUST, 1867.

SIR,

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt, on the 12th instant, of your letter No. 777, dated the 14th of June last, submitting the Report on the Administration of Criminal Justice in the North-Western Provinces for the year 1866.

2. The Report having been laid before His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, I am directed to communicate, in reply, the following observations and orders:—

3. The total number of persons under trial during the past year has exceeded by 5,285 the number shown in the return for the previous year. It is observed, however, that the increase has been entirely of persons charged with bailable and less heinous offences; and the Police returns show that cases of murder, dacoity, robbery, lurking house-trespass and theft, have all diminished, as compared with 1865. The districts in which the largest numbers of persons were under trial are those of Agra, Bareilly, Cawnpore, Allahabad, and Mirzapore.

4. The percentage of convictions and commitments, to the whole number tried, is somewhat better than in 1865. The best percentages have been in the districts of Benares, Boolundshuhur, and Deyrah Dhoon.

5. Satisfactory improvement is shown in the reduction of the number of persons under trial at the close of the year, and of those whose cases had been under investigation for more than three months.

6. With reference to the remarks in paragraphs 27 and 28, I am to observe that there is no doubt of a want of detective ability in the Police; but as regards their failure in cases of burglary and theft, it must be remembered with what facility a burglary is committed in a mud or grass hut; that the Police force is weak in number as compared with area; that in both classes of crime, the offence is generally of a petty nature; and that as the property stolen is of a very common character, there is consequently difficulty in identifying it. Unless, therefore, the prosecutor or village Chowkeedar can give some clue, detection is often almost hopeless. The statistics given in the Police Report show, however, that out of a total number of 65,413 offences reported in 1866, 34,724, or 53 per cent., were investigated by the Police, and that 74 per cent. of the persons arrested by the Police were convicted or committed for trial. While it must be admitted that there is considerable room for improvement, His Honor cannot consider that these results, which are as good as those shown in the return of crime in England for 1865, are altogether unsatisfactory.

7. The attention of the Inspector-General of Police, North-Western Provinces, will be called to the remark of the High Court in the 29th paragraph of the Report, that there is reason to fear that the practice of extorting or eliciting confessions from accused persons is not unknown in the Police, His Honor trusts that all officers of the force will do their utmost to check so objectionble a practice.

8. There can be no question that the time of the Police is often unprofitably occupied in serving summonses in petty cases; but it appears to have been the intention of the Legislature that processes should be served by them, even in petty cases, except when "immediate service might be necessary, and no Police officer be immediately available," for the purpose.

9. The Lieutenant-Governor considers the Court's suggestion regarding the occasional deputation of a Subordinate Magistrate to hold local enquiry in preliminary investigations, as permitted by Sections 135, 180, and 273 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, to be useful, and a general direction to that effect might, with advantage, be issued.

10. With reference to the remarks on the comparative number of trials in different districts, it must be observed that the position of Humeerpore is in a considerable degree due to the fact that its population is smaller than that of any other District in these Provinces, excepting Deyrah Dhoon and the Non-Regulation Districts. It has also to be considered that although the amount of criminal work undertaken by Mr. Ironside is creditable to that officer, yet there is only one Tehseelee in the Benares District, and consequently less Revenue work than in most others.

11. The Lieutenant-Governor has much satisfaction in acknowledging the valuable services of the gentlemen named in paragraphs 54 to 57 of the Court's Report.

12. The Lieutenant-Governor is of opinion that if in [illegible] the Joint Magistrate, or an experienced Assistant, were to sit with the Honorary Magistrate two or three times a week in the city, it would have a very beneficial effect, and would be most useful in teaching the latter rules of procedure, and the mode of trying cases. A Circular will therefore be issued desiring Magistrates to introduce this practice wherever circumstances admit of it. You will be addressed hereafter on the subject of paragraph 61 of your Report.

13. It appears to His Honor that persons imprisoned for [illegible] default of security, should be made to labor, and that advantage should be taken of any revision of the Procedure Code to procure an alteration of the law in this respect.

14. Of the number of persons sentenced to whipping under the provisions of Act VI. of 1864, which was rather less than in the previous year, it is observed that 525 were thus punished on a second conviction, and 3,389 on a first conviction. Of the whole number whipped, 3,276 were adults, and 670 juveniles. The proposal to establish a Reformatory for juvenile offenders has been negatived by the Supreme Government; but in the Central Prisons, and in the larger District Jails, arrangements are being made for the entire separation of all juveniles from the other prisoners.

15. It is correctly remarked by the Court that the remedy for any injurious consequences likely to arise from the absence of any one on behalf of the Crown at the hearing of appeals is in the hands of Magistrates themselves.

16. The expediency or otherwise of discontinuing the statement showing the number of cases in which proceedings have been taken under Chapter 22 of the Code of Criminal Procedure will come under consideration when the Court's Report on the Judicial Statements proposed by the Statistical Committee is received.

17. The statement showing the number of witnesses examined in Zillah Courts, and the periods of their detention, is very satisfactory and creditable. This opinion is expressed with the more confidence that there is every reason to confide in the accuracy of the statement, now that the check directed by the Court is carried out.

18. The Lieutenant-Governor entirely approves of the principle followed by the Court in reviewing the return of the average duration of cases before different Magistrates.

19. His Honor observes with much satisfaction that the general average duration of suits throughout the North-Western Provinces is shorter by one day than it was in 1865.

20. His Honor trusts that Judicial Officers will not overlook the remark of the Court, that it is unnecessary that complainants should apply for compensation under Section 44 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

21. The rule followed by the Judges of Moradabad and Goruckpore, of fixing certain days for the performance of criminal work, has deservedly met with the approval of the Court.

22. It is very important that Judges and Magistrates should set apart some well-known hours for attendance at the Public Court-house, and it is hoped that all Judicial Officers will appreciate the justice of the Court's remarks on the point.

23. The Lieutenant-Governor believes that where questions of caste or of creed are not involved, assessors perform their duty on the whole with impartiality and to the best of their ability, and is inclined to concur generally in the opinion of the Third Judge, referred to in paragraph 119 of the Report. The Court are requested to report the name of the Magistrate who has noticed the great dislike shown by respectable natives to sit as assessors.

24. With regard to the remarks in paragraph 123, I am to observe that some alteration in the Judicial arrangements at Ajmere is unquestionably called for, in order that Sessions trials may come off with less delay. There is not sufficient work for a special officer, and the only alternative appears to be to invest the Deputy Commissioner with the powers of a Sessions Judge, for which his experience appears sufficiently to qualify him. The Commissioner will be consulted on the subject.

25. The Lieutenant-Governor notes with satisfaction the commendation bestowed by the Court on the Officers named in paragraphs 130 to 134, whose services are fully appreciated by His Honor. I am desired to request that the High Court will be good enough to furnish this Office with the reports of the Judges and Magistrates, as well as the Court's own replies thereto, and will in future cause these papers to be forwarded with their own Annual Report to Government.

26. It is observed that the criminal business coming before the High Court has been promptly disposed of, and that there are no arrears. Altogether, the Lieutenant-Governor considers the state of the Criminal Administration to be satisfactory, and desires me to convey to the High Court the acknowledgments of Government for their interesting and useful Report, and for their able superintendence of this important branch of the administration.

I have the honor to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient Servant,

R. SIMSON,

Secretary to Government,

N. W. Provinces.

9. The Court has not been informed whether the Magistrates have to any, and what extent, availed themselves of the discretionary power given them of dispensing with the stamp in certain cases.

Police Investigations.

10. The proportion between the number of offences ascertained to have been committed, and the number of cases brought into the Magistrates' Courts for enquiry or trial, has not improved. Out of 25,711 cases of theft and 13,093 cases of house-breaking, in only 8,743 and 1,653 cases respectively were arrests made. These figures support the complaint generally made, and which the Court believes to be well founded, as to the want of detective ability shewn by the Police. At the same time it is right to mention that more than one Judicial Officer has commended the carefulness with which investigations by the Police have been conducted, and the diligence with which a clue once given has been followed up.

11. The Court has reason to fear however that, in conducting their investigations, the Police are not careful to keep within the provisions of the law. One Judge writes that resort is occasionally had, "in cases, where the trace has been difficult, to practices which subject unoffending persons to much annoyance and distress." And this remark is confirmed by a case which recently came before the Court, in which two of the Agra Police were accused of voluntarily causing hurt, and of wrongful confinement for the purpose of extorting confession. The evidence was conflicting, and the charges in the opinion of the Magistrate broke down: but it was shewn that certain persons had been illegally detained during the enquiry into a robbery that had taken place, merely because they were known or supposed to be bad characters.

12. The Court has reason to believe that the Police, when engaged in a difficult enquiry, are in the habit of arresting all persons, who in their opinion are bad characters, and of keeping them in duress without sending them in to the Magistrate, in order that by some means or other some one of them may be induced to give information. By this course of procedure the Police habitually transgress the law, and afford ground for constant complaints of torture. Such detention is styled "surveillance;" but surveillance implies merely a keeping watch over the movements of any one suspected, and not the putting any restraint on his movements by detention of his person. Any detention by a Police Constable is, if the Constable acts in the execution of his duty, an arrest, and the person detained should within 24 hours either be released, or sent in to the Magistrate, as the law directs.

13. The Court has had occasion to notice the efficiency of the Railway Police at Allahabad and Cawnpore. This portion of the Force has, in cases which have come before the Court in the exercise of its original jurisdiction, shown itself to possess both detective ability and smartness, which merits commendation.

14. The decrease in the number of persons brought to trial in the Magistrate's Courts is very much larger than the decrease in the number of offences. Seventy-five thousand and forty-four (75,044) persons charged with bailable, and 22,600 charged with non-bailable offences were brought to trial, as compared with 80,556, and 26,650 persons in 1866. The total decrease is 9,562, or about nine per cent. The decrease in the number of persons charged with non-bailable is proportionately twice as large as in the number of persons charged with bailable offences, and whether it be due to agricultural prosperity or to successful administration it is matter for congratulation. The proportion between the number of ascertained offences, and the number of cases brought to trial, appears to be about the same in both years.

State of Magistrates' Files.

15. The number of persons left under trial at the end of the year was 995, of which only 484 were in custody. Considering the number of Magistrates' Courts in these Provinces, the number of persons left under trial, although it exceeds by 84 the number in the corresponding return for 1866, is by no means excessive. Indeed, it is matter for surprise that in such a district as Cawnpore, for instance, where the Criminal work is heavy, three persons only should have been awaiting trial at the end of the year.

16. In the Districts of Shahjehanpore, Azimgurh, Mirzapore, and Ghazeepore, the files might have been clearer; but the circumstance, which but for any special arrangement would be accidental, of a large or small number of persons being under the trial in the Magistrates' Courts on a particular date, is not much to be regarded, so long as the number is not so large as to show that arrears have been allowed to accumulate. The Magistrate of Azimgurh reports that the staff of Magisterial Officers is quite inadequate for the wants of his district.

17. It is not satisfactory to find that 14 persons had been, at the close of the year, under trial in the Magistrates' Courts for more than three months. The two persons however who are shewn in the Furruckabad Return were in confinement in a Lunatic Asylum, and the trial of four persons in the Mirzapore District had been delayed owing to the absence of the record, which had been sent up to the High Court on the appeal of some other persons concerned in the same case. Generally the business of the Magistrates' Courts is despatched with sufficient promptitude.

Per-centage of Convictions.

18. The per-centage of successful prosecutions stands at 62 for non-bailable offences, the same proportion as was shown in the Report for 1866. But there is an improvement in the per-centage of convictions for bailable offences, which stands at 68, as compared with 62 which was the per-centage for the previous year.

19. The Court notices with satisfaction any improvement in this respect; for the large proportion of innocent persons, who are needlessly summoned into the Criminal Courts, and subjected to the annoyance and disgrace of a Criminal prosecution for the gratification of private animosity, or for the determination of some dispute which forms appropriate matter for a Civil suit, is a blot upon the administration of Justice in India.

20. In order to check this evil, the Court believes that ample means are provided by law, and this it has endeavoured to impress upon all Judicial Officers by often repeated instructions.

21. First, the Code of Criminal Procedure provides that the Magistrate on receiving a complaint shall, before issuing summons or warrant on an accused person, examine the complainant, reducing the examination to writing, and shall only issue summons or warrant when there is sufficient ground for proceeding, otherwise he shall dismiss the complaint.

22. Now it appears from the report of one Magistrate that it is the practice in his district,—and the practice is, the Court fears, not confined to his district,—to receive petitions at the close of each day's work, and to pass orders upon them without due attention to the provisions of the law. He urges that inasmuch as some two hundred petitions are daily presented, it would be "simply impossible to get through them, if the Magistrate stops to catechise the complainants." The Court can hardly believe that any Magistrate in these Provinces receives so many as 200 petitions a day; but whether this be so or not one thing is clear, that, in the district referred to, a salutary provision of the law is systematically overlooked. In issuing summonses or warrants, Magistrates are required to proceed with deliberation and discretion, having regard to the inconvenience and injury which may be occasioned to innocent persons, if the precaution which the law enjoins is neglected.

23. If this Magisterial staff is too weak to carry out the duties imposed upon it by law, representation should be made to the Government. But a thorough examination of the complainant will not unfrequently shew, that his complaint is groundless or not, one to be entertained in a Criminal Court, and by such an examination the Magistrate's time will be in the end economized.

24. At the same time, while the Court condemns the indiscriminate issue of process upon every complaint, it warns Magistrates against the converse error into which they may be led by misunderstanding the Court's instructions, or the desire to show good returns, namely, the summary dismissal of complaints without enquiry, upon a hastily conceived or pretended impression that they are groundless or unfit for investigation in a Criminal Court. It may be necessary to warn the younger Magistrates against such hasty procedure.

25. Secondly, as a means of repressing improper recourse to the Criminal Courts, the Code of Criminal Procedure empowers the Magistrates to award amends to be paid by the complainant to the accused in cases of frivolous or vexatious complaints. This power is at present confined to cases, where complaint is made of an offence punishable with imprisonment not exceeding six months. The Court is of opinion, that the power might be advantageously extended to cases, where complaint is made of other offences. This provision of the law is expressly intended, and is well suited to accomplish the object for the attainment of which an institution fee has been considered necessary. And it has this advantage that, whereas the institution fee vexes the good and the bad alike, the penalty inflicted at the end of the suit falls only where it is deserved.

26. The Court has been surprised to find, on an examination of the District Returns, how little use is made of the section. It may be that the Magistrates dislike to act on their own motion, although it is not necessary that any charge should be preferred by the injured person; or it may be that the Magistrates are content with dismissing the case and getting it off their files, and in the press of work forget the amends that are due to the falsely accused. For the future, the Court will look for a wise exercise of this power, and is confident that it will go far to remove the grounds of the complaint now made, with too great justice, against our Criminal Courts,—that they afford a ready means for the gratification of private enmity, and for the annoyance of the innocent.

27. Here too an abuse may arise from arbitrary or ill-judged action; but this is less to be feared, as the order cannot be passed till after the case has been determined by judicial inquiry. But it may be worthy of consideration whether the Legislature, in extending the provision as mentioned above, should not also provide for an appeal, which is not at present allowed, from the order awarding amends when passed by a Subordinate Magistrate. Any person convicted on trial by a Subordinate Magistrate and sentenced to pay a small fine has the right of appeal to the Magistrate, and it seems inconsistent to deny this right where the fine is inflicted without judicial conviction upon a charge framed.

28. The Court is of opinion that by acting as pointed out above, by a careful personal examination of complainants, by inflicting penalties for frivolous and vexatious complaints, by exercising an efficient control over the practitioners in their Courts, the Magistrates have ample means for suppressing malicious and unfounded litigation; and with these views the Court carefully watches the per-centages of convictions, and calls for explanations, where the statements show that summonses have been issued without proper deliberation, and innocent men have been needlessly brought away from their homes and subjected to the expense and disgrace of appearing as criminals.

29. It will be seen from the subjoined Statement that, except in the case of complaints for wrongful confinement, there has been a considerable improvement during the past year in the proportion of successful prosecutions for those offences, the alleged commission of which is the ground for the majority of frivolous and vexatious complaints:—

Crimes.	Per-centage of Conviction for
	1866.	1867.
Assault	47	53
Mischief	42	46
Trespass	40	44
Wrongful restraint	35	45
Ditto confinement	25	21

The Court looks however for much better results in future.

No. 286A. OF 1868.

FROM

R. SIMSON, ESQUIRE,

Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces,

To

THE REGISTRAR TO THE HIGH COURT OF JUDICATURE,
NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES.

Dated Nynee Tal, the 26th August, 1868.

SIR,

JUDICIAL DEPT. (CRIMINAL.)

HAVING received and laid before the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor the letter from your office No. 923, dated the 13th June last, being the report on the Administration of Criminal Justice for the past year, I am directed to communicate the following observations and orders:—

2. There is a discrepancy observable between the returns of offences in this report, and those contained in the report of the Police Administration for the same period. This is most noticeable in the case of "murders," which are stated in the Criminal Report to have amounted to 328, while the Police returns showed only 279. This may arise from a different system of registration; for instance, a dacoity attended with murder may be shown in the Police returns under the head of "Dacoity," while it may possibly appear in the Magistrate's returns as a "Murder." But the variation is so considerable as to require explanation, which has accordingly been called for from the Inspector-General of Police and the Magistrates.

3. The decrease in the reported number of non-bailable cases is attributed in some measure by the Court to the working of the new Stamp Act; but it is not understood how the Act can affect, except very slightly, the complaints of such offences. The Lieutenant-Governor apprehends that it is chiefly in complaints of assault, abuse, trespass, and other petty offences which are bailable, that the Act operates to produce a decrease.

4. With reference to paragraph 8, I am to observe that some check in the presentation of complaints was no doubt required. Whether the stamp of one rupee was more than adequate there is no evidence yet to prove. Possibly a lower stamp would have sufficiently fulfilled the object in view: but the discretion given to Magistrates to dispense with it altogether ought, even on that supposition, to prevent any absolute denial of justice.

5. Adverting to the remarks on the deficiency of detective ability in the Police, the Lieutenant-Governor fears that the imputation is to a great extent just, as has been fully admitted in the Police reports and the orders of Government.

6. There is also ground to fear that cases like that of Bichpooree near Agra (apparently the one alluded to by the High Court in paragraph 11) too frequently occur, in which, by arbitrary and indiscriminate arrests, the Police vainly hope and endeavour to supply the lack of really detective intelligence and vigour. Constant inculcations are issued against this, the normal tendency of Indian Police, and when any instance comes to light, prompt and sufficient notice is taken of it. There is, however, ground for believing that the detective power of the Police by right and honest measure is on the increase.

7. It is gratifying to find that the Court are able to bear testimony to the efficiency of the Railway Police at Allahabad and Cawnpore. This body consists of men selected for the duty, but there is no reason why the detective and preventive ability shown in it should not by degrees be acquired in the general force.

8. It is correct as stated in paragraph 16, that by an unfortunate combination, which it was not possible to avoid, the staff of the District of Azimgurh happened to be unusually weak.

9. On the subject of paragraph 22, namely, the indiscriminate issue of summonses and warrants, and the alleged want of leisure on the part of Magistrates carefully to enter into the merits of each petition, I am to observe that the jurisdiction is ordinarily territorially divided, in which case ordinary petitions would follow such division; or the Magistrate can at the time of hearing petitions distribute some portion to his subordinate staff, who again are responsible for seeing that no unnecessary warrant of summons is issued. The Lieutenant-Governor however fully admits that the Court's injunctions on this point are very just, and also on the converse error of hasty dismissal of complaints; and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that both will receive a careful and discriminating attention from the Magistrates and their staff.

10. There is no doubt that the power to punish for bringing frivolous or vexatious complaints might be used more freely with advantage; but as observed by the Court, this power requires to be exercised with very great judgment and discrimination, and His Honor agrees in the view that all orders of the kind ought to be made subject to review by the Magistrate of the District.

11. The Lieutenant-Governor concurs that as a rule it is proper that criminal appeals should be heard at the Sudder Station, but when the Magistrate's camp is in the vicinity of the complainant and defendant's place of abode, there is an obvious advantage in the appeal being heard in camp.

12. The attention of Commissioners will be directed to the very just remarks contained in paragraph 37, and they will be desired to impress upon Magistrates, and themselves to see in their circuits, that a due amount of Judicial work is disposed of by the Magistrates of the several districts.

13. In regard to the employment of Tehseeldars in the interior as Deputy Magistrates, I am to observe that the two Magistrates who complain of the delay which occurred in the Tehseeldars' Courts, had the remedy in their own hands. If the Tehseeldars had too much business of other kinds, the Magistrates should have given them less Criminal work; and if unnecessary delays occurred, the Magistrates should have reproved them, and ensured greater promptitude for the future.

14. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with commendation the exertions of the Honorary Magistrates named in paragraph 43; and I am also to add the name of Rajah Juswunt Rao, C.S.I., of Etawah, as deserving notice. His Honor is gratified to receive the remarks upon the work performed by these gentlemen, and thoroughly joins the Court in expecting the best results from their association with the Administration, and the hope justly entertained of thereby really enlisting the energies and endeavours of the native gentlemen of rank and character in the interests of justice and good Government.

15. The caution however enjoined in paragraph 44, in respect of directing the action of the Honorary Magistrates in the interior, is evidently required, and should receive the attention of the several Magistrates.

16. The remarks of the Court in paragraphs 54 and 55, on the proportioning of fines to the means of the offender, and the importance of realizing them when once imposed, are very appropriate. It is probable that the recent Circular Order, limiting prosecutions for breach of the salt laws, will reduce the number of fines under this head in future.

17. There has apparently in some districts been laxity and misapplication of the provisions of the Law in respect of security for good conduct and for keeping the peace. The cautions and instructions of the Court in paragraphs 59 and 60 on this subject will no doubt receive due attention from Magistrates.

18. The report on the punishment of whipping under Act IV. of 1864 is satisfactory so far as it is indicative of decrease of disgraceful crimes. In respect of juvenile criminals, however, it would not be satisfactory if there were reason to apprehend that such offenders had been frequently imprisoned instead of being whipped. Referring to paragraph 64, it may be noted that in districts which contain large cities with crowded bazaars, those crimes for which the punishment of whipping is usually awarded, occur much more frequently than in districts the population of which is chiefly rural.

19. The Lieutenant-Governor shares in the gratification of the Court in finding the name of Honorary Magistrate Sheikh Shurf-ood-deen among the list of officers whose decisions have been least frequently appealed.

20. The small number of appeals in Boolundshuhur and Budaon is no doubt owing to there being no resident Judge at those stations.

21. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the proposal to authorise the payment by Criminal Courts of the reasonable expenses of complainants and witnesses attending a trial, will be passed into law, as recommended in paragraph 82.

22. The average duration of cases in Etah is shown to have been one day less than last year, but the duration is still high. In Allygurh there has been much improvement.

23. The decrease in crime, shown in paragraph 96, is very satisfactory, if, as may be presumed, there was equal power of detection.

24. The statement at paragraph 98 shows that the total number of cases tried by Judges with the aid of Assessors was 1,041, in only 181 of which, or 14 per cent., the Judges disagreed with the opinion of the Assessors. It is noticeable that Mr. Mark Thornhill, in all three districts of Seharunpore, Mozuffernugger, and Dehra Doon, found cause to disagree with the Assessors in 75 out of the 86 cases tried by him, or in no less a proportion than 87 per cent.

25. His Honor cordially agrees in the remark of the Court in paragraph 101 that "if the Assessors are treated with proper courtesy, and if the Judge shows that "he wishes them to understand and take an intelligent share in the conduct of the "trial, and that he looks to them for assistance, the institution will become popular "and useful, politically as well as in the administration of justice."

26. Adverting to the Court's remarks in paragraph 104, on the delay in the average duration of appeals in Sessions Courts, I am to observe that promptitude in the submission of the records from the Magistrate's Courts should be insisted on. This point is so essential to the ends of justice, and often, indeed, to the efficient exercise of the right of appeal at all, that Commissioners will be required in their tours to see that proper arrangements are made for the immediate submission of the record in case of appeal.

27. On the question of the trial of Sessions cases in Ajmere, I am to forward, for the information of the Court, the accompanying extract, from which it will be seen that, although the evil of the present system is fully admitted, a way for improvement has not yet been found.

28. On comparing your paragraph 108 with the statement given in paragraph 115, it is not clear how 73 persons were sentenced to death, when out of 74 capital sentences 58 only were confirmed by the High Court.

29. In conclusion, I am desired to convey the thanks of the Government to the Court for their excellent review of the Criminal Administration, and for the effective control exercised by them over it.

I have the honor to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient Servant,

R. SIMSON,

Secy. to the Government of the North-Western Provinces.

No. 287A.

ORDERED,—That a copy of paragraph 2 of this letter be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Police, with the request that he will cause a thorough comparison of the returns submitted to the Court and to this office, to be instituted with the view of discovering the reason of the discrepancy noted.

No. 288A.

COPY of paragraph 37 of the report, and paragraph 12 of this reply, forwarded to all Commissioners for information and guidance.

Extract paragraphs 1 to 9 of a Minute by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, North-Western Provinces, on the proposed changes in Ajmere, dated the 27*th March,* 1868.

Government of India, Home Department, No. 1101, dated 9th December, 1867.
Agent, Governor-General, No. 114, dated 25th February, 1868.
Inspector-General of Police, No. 797, dated 14th February, 1868.
Ditto ditto, No. 1178, dated 5th March, 1868.

1. This correspondence involves a number of very important questions.

2. There is first the proposal to confer upon the Deputy Commissioner the authority of a Sessions Judge brought before the Supreme Government in Mr. Simson's letter of 20th November last, and in reply to which a return of the number of cases coming before the Agent as Sessions Judge was called for. The number is now shown to be eight on an annual average: though it varies much, having been in 1866 no fewer than eighteen.

3. Colonel Keatinge, in his letter of 25th February, proposes a more radical change in the constitution of the Commission. He would relieve the Agent to the Governor-General altogether from his duties as Commissioner of Ajmere, and would appoint a separate Officer, resident at Ajmere, to that duty. He thinks the present Deputy Commissioner might be nominated Commissioner, and his two Assistants be made the District Officers respectively of Ajmere and Mhairwara. He would increase their salary, if necessary, from the proposed reductions in the Mhairwara Battalion.

4. Now there are some grave objections to this plan.

5. In the first place if the Deputy Commissioner be nominated Commissioner, and as such invested with the powers of Sessions, he must resign the immediate executive control; for those powers cannot, under the terns of Act XV. of 1862, be exercised in conjunction with the executive charge. The arrangement therefore could not be carried out in the present state of the law; and this consideration seems equally to negative the proposal made in paragraph 4 of the address of this Government, dated 20th November, to the Government of India.

6. Now if the services of the present Deputy Commissioner were to be given to the supervising duties of Commissioner, and not to the executive charge of the district, then it appears to me that the two Assistants on 800 and 500 Rs. per mensem could not undertake respectively the sole charge of the two districts, without additional aid.

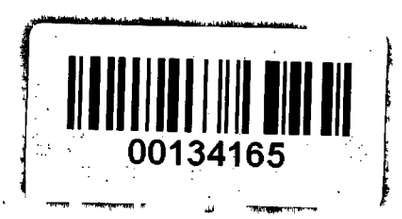

7. The question then comes to this, whether a new officer shall be nominated to the Commission, whose sole duty shall be that of Commissioner. Considering the small area and population of Ajmere, and that its Revenue to Government is less than four lakhs of rupees, it would be quite unreasonable to post an officer to it, whose single duty should be that of Commissioner. The proposal would be justly objected to by the Government of India, and must be abandoned.

8. There is no doubt that the present arrangement is open to all the objections urged in Colonel Keatinge's letter of 25th February. Delay and hardship are involved in having the appellate authority at so great a distance from Ajmere; and I can well imagine that amid the multifarious engagements of the Rajpootana Agency, the duty must often be inconvenient, and sometimes irksome, to the Agent himself. But situated as Ajmere is, a British Province, many hundred miles from our own territories, and in the midst of Rajpootana, there appears to be really no othor reasonable arrangement open to consideration; and as this is the arrangement sanctioned by the Supreme Government, there seems no help for it but to make it as efficient and convenient as possible.

9. In respect of the Session's Court and Gaol deliveries, I do not see [illegible] any alteration is possible, unless the Supreme Government would consent to a modification of the present law extending the powers of the Deputy Commissioner as Sessions Judge.

Letter from Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department, to Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces (No. 717).—Dated the 23rd April, 1868.

SIR,—I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 376, dated the 7th instant, forwarding, with reference to prior correspondence, copy of a Minute dated 27th ultimo, recorded by the Lieutenant-Governor on certain "proposed changes in Ajmere;" and in reply to state that the Governor-General in Council concurs in the views expressed in paragraphs 1 to 9 of His Honor's Minute.
